

h. Archive Policy

All items belonging to the Library with potential historical value will be professionally appraised before the item is discarded. The River Valley District Library does not maintain an archive besides the original book collection. However, River Valley District Library does maintain local historical sources in our collection. Any local area historical materials donated to the library will either be displayed at the library or donated to the Port Byron Historic Society, housed on the library's 2nd floor.
